Foresee Turndown On Using Draft In Reserve's Program

Pentagon Request Hits Snag

WASHINGTON, April 17 (AP) — Rep. Brooks (D-La.) predicted today the House Armed Services Committee will turn down tomorrow a Pentagon request for authority to draft youths into the military reserves.

He said Congress probably would scrap all of a bill designed to strengthen the reserves if asked to approve that provision.

The Armed Services group takes up the controversial question in giving final consideration to a measure worked out by a subcommittee headed by Brooks.

The Louisiana congressman said in an interview he expects the full committee to endorse the principal new provision, authorizing special six months' training for between 100,000 and 250,000 volunteers a year. The trainees, 17-19 years old, must be willing to accept long-term reserve duty.

But Brooks said the committee probably will reject a Pentagon proposal to use the draft, if necessary, to obtain the minimum number of volunteers each year.

Brooks' group split on the question and referred it to the full committee for final decision.

Army spokesmen said they needed some form of compulsion to build up their reserves. Opponents attacked the draft feature as an opening wedge for Universal Military Training.

Brooks said Congress likely would rebel against the entire program if asked to approve what he called a "second draft."

On a second controversial question, Brooks said the committee probably would approve authority for the president to call up around 750,000 reservists, without specific congressional approval, in a presidentially declared emergency. The president previously had this authority, but Congress took it away in 1952.

The goal for an expanded reserve force is to have more than two million men undergoing regular drills by 1959, a threefold increase over the present total.

The main source of manpower for this expansion would be the six-month trainees.

Republicans File Answer To Truman

WASHINGTON, April 17 (AP) — Republicans hit back at former President Truman today for charging "political fraud" and trickery in the Eisenhower administration's conduct of foreign affairs.

"The New Deal peashooters will get nowhere," said Leonard W. Hall, Republican national chairman.

"Neither vicious personal attacks on the President nor the ridiculous efforts to undermine his outstanding record in office will succeed," Hall added in a statement.

In another of a series of GOP blasts, Sen. Bridges described Truman's speech at a Democratic rally here last night as a "vitriolic, partisan and unfounded attack" on Eisenhower's management of foreign policy.

GIVE TO CONQUER CANCER

AMERICAN CANCER SOCIETY

THE TRIUMPH OVER POLIO by Dr. Jonas E. Salk can now be added to the long list of medical victories based on immunology, discovered by Edward Jenner, British physician, musician and poet of the 18th century. Just as Dr. Salk, shown at bottom immunizing a youngster, injected his own children with the vaccine, so Jenner (in sculpture at top) in 1796 inoculated his eight-year-old son with cowpox, signalling the end of smallpox and the beginning of a new science. Dr. Salk has one further step to go in his battle against the disease—to make his vaccine 100 percent effective.

Salk Vows Vaccine Will Be Made 100 Percent Effective

PITTSBURGH, April 17 (AP)—Surrounded by his family and a few close friends, Dr. Jonas E. Salk rested today in preparation for renewing his fight against infantile paralysis.

After he returned here yesterday—and was greeted by some 500 persons at Greater Pittsburgh Airport — the scientist-researcher vowed to work for 100 per cent effectiveness of the anti-polio vaccine which bears his name.

Tests have shown the vaccine is 90 to 99 per cent effective. After the report was released at the University of Michigan last Tuesday, Dr. Salk, his wife and three children stayed at Ann Arbor for a brief rest. But after his arrival here he left no doubt that he soon will be back in his laboratory at the University of Pittsburgh.

Asked their future plans, Mrs. Salk replied for her husband: "We'll just go back to our ordinary lives. At least we hope it will be ordinary."

Meanwhile, congratulations poured in to Dr. Salk from all sections of the world. Some persons tried to talk to him personally on the phone.

As plans went forward for mass distribution of the vaccine, Dr. Elmer Hess, president-elect of the American Medical Assn., said he does not believe a national conference is necessary to set up plans for the distribution.

A conference of doctors, health officials and vaccine manufacturers is scheduled for Washington next Friday.

"First of all, we are dealing with honorable pharmaceutical houses," Dr. Hess said. "Number two, we are dealing with honorable people at the distribution level. And, number three, we are dealing with honorable physicians — most of whom are decent men. And, then too, we are dealing with an honorable public who, I feel sure, will see it that the ones who needed the vaccine first will be the ones to get it first."

Dr. Hess, a resident of Erie, was in Pittsburgh to participate in a scientific program at St. Francis General Hospital.

Hill Has Suggestion

WASHINGTON, April 17 (AP) — Sen. Hill (D-Ala.) urged today that federal funds be used, if necessary, to "make certain" that every child needing the Salk polio vaccine gets it.

Income Tax Briefing To Be Held Today

HARRISBURG, April 17 (AP)—Gov. George M. Leader went over the fine print of his half billion dollar tax package tonight with Democratic members of the House and Senate Finance Committees.

The governor called the conference at the executive mansion to wrap up finally the administration tax program he will present to the General Assembly Tuesday afternoon. The lawmakers resume sessions tomorrow after a two weeks Easter recess.

The final preliminary toward unveiling of the tax package and the Commonwealth's estimated $1,650,000,000 budget for the 1955-57 biennium will be a briefing Monday afternoon by the governor of Capitol Hill on details of both the budget and tax program.

That will be their first official information on the makeup of the tax program, which has been subject of wide speculation during the last two weeks while it was being hammered out at Leader's almost daily conference with his tax advisers.

Pieced together from reports that trickled out of the tax conferences, the program was represented as built around a form of state income tax, with rates ranging from one per cent on wages and salaries, with an exemption on the first $1,000, to five or six per cent on unincorporated businesses and professions, rents and royalties, dividends, interests, capital gains and other investments.

Other features of the tax package reportedly include an increase from 14 to 20 mills in the tax on gross receipts of public utilities; an increase from 4 to 8 mills in bank shares and extending that levy to building and loan associations; an increase from 5 to 5 1/2 or 6 per cent in the corporate net income tax, a major source of state revenue, and possibly a levy on natural gas.

Aside from the general tax package, the administration also was reported ready to recommend increasing the state's gasoline tax by one cent a gallon to six cents, and revising automobile fees upward.

While the tax program and budget will dominate the Legislature this week, the lawmakers also will give attention to other matters.

The Senate will consider bills authorizing an east-west extension of the Pennsylvania Turnpike from Sharon to Stroudsburg and another extension from the western part of the toll road to the West Virginia border.

The House may act on a bill permitting Pennsylvania to build two dams for water supply purposes on the Delaware River. The House also has before it a Senate-passed resolution setting up a commission to make a prompt study of the whole subject.

As the administration tax program neared its formal unveiling, Sen. Joseph M. Barr, Democratic state chairman, called for "bipartisan cooperation" in solving the state's budget-tax problem.

Barr asked for evaluation of the tax program "in a spirit of compromise and accord" and urged that it "be kept free from self-serving political impulses."

"If we do not approach it on that basis we cannot escape the prospect of floundering helplessly in a dead-end of inaction," Barr said in a weekend statement.

But Rep. Charles C. Smith, Republican floor leader, commented on the administration tax program that Gov. Leader is "about to break his promise never to consider a wage or sales tax and to make up the 100 million dollar loss in sales tax revenue by governmental economies."

Administration sources, in disclosing the possibility of increasing the state's gasoline tax and automobile fees, said the revenue would be needed to meet a Democratic platform pledge for improvement of state and local roads.

A cent a gallon boost in the five-cents a gallon gasoline tax would bring the state an additional 62 million dollars in the two-year fiscal period starting June 1.

Most of this would be used to finance a bond in state aid for local roadbuilding programs from the present 36 millions a biennium.

To Offer Bill

PHILADELPHIA, April 17 (AP)—State Rep. John N. Pomeroy Jr. (R-Phila.) today said he will introduce a bill in the legislature tomorrow making it possible for pupils in kindergarten, and the third and fourth grades to receive free Salk anti-polio vaccinations.

Hoover Group Reports Mountainous Surpluses Unneeded By Military Find Way To Reds

WASHINGTON, April 17 (AP)—The Hoover Commission told Congress today the government is wasting billions of dollars by piling up "mountainous" supplies of unneeded goods and then selling them as surplus at a fraction of cost.

Furthermore, it said some of these surplus goods unloaded by military services abroad are finding their way into Communist hands.

The 12-man bipartisan commission, headed by former President Herbert Hoover, said government supplies have now reached an "enormous pool" valued at 155 billion dollars and are scattered throughout the world.

The report estimated they will be disposed of at the rate of more than two billion dollars annually during the next few years. It urged "modern techniques of selling under the advice of merchandising experts" to recover much more than the 5 to 7 per cent of cost which present methods bring in.

But the biggest problem, the Commission said, is to prevent the piling up of excessive surpluses in the first place. With proper inventory controls and "more realistic stock levels," the Commission said, "from 10 to 25 billion dollars of supplies now in government warehouses could be eliminated."

The report said reduced buying, more efficient use of stocks on hand and more intelligent disposal methods "would go a long way toward eliminating the annual deficit in the national budget."

A task force headed by Gen. Robert E. Wood, former chairman of Sears Roebuck, found at Raritan, N.J., that on 10 items the Army had an average 324 years supply on hand.

At Mechanicsburg, Pa., the Navy had enough gear drives to supply needs for 128 years at the current rate of issue.

The commission said one agency often pays commercial prices for an item which another agency is selling as surplus at a severe loss.

Mansfield Claims Harm From A-Tests

WASHINGTON, April 17 (AP)—Sen. Mansfield (D-Mont.) declared today the effects of nuclear test explosions may pose a "threat to our wellbeing."

Mansfield took issue with the Atomic Energy Commission on what harm may come from atomic and hydrogen weapon experiments. AEC says fears have been exaggerated.

Mansfield called for a study by the Eisenhower administration and the Senate into "implications" of nuclear weapons development on U.S. foreign policy.

In a speech prepared for the Senate later this week, which he made public today, Mansfield said complete reliance in war on "suicidal" hydrogen weapons "may lead to self destruction."

"The latest move along this dangerous path is the new doctrine of 'limited' atomic war with tactical weapons, recently expounded by Secretary of State Dulles, with the endorsement of President Eisenhower."

"Tactical atomic weapons used on military targets only is a wishful attempt at minimizing the dangers of nuclear warfare."

Mansfield said some scientists are worried lest radioactivity from the tests affect the earth's atmosphere or vegetable and animal life, and hence human life.

"What is involved" in this threat, he said, "is not the frequently voiced fear of slaughter and destruction in war on an unprecedented scale, but of the effects of a hidden, insidious, largely undetectable and uncontrollable poison which perhaps is capable of destroying the human race as a biological genus."

Observers from Tunisia, Morocco and Algeria—all in France's North African domain—have banded together. They plan to hand the Conference secretariat a joint memorandum asking for complete independence from France.

South Viet Nam and Cambodia also are represented, and the North Africans are in touch with them. The North Africans want Indo-Chinese support in seeking an end to the French Union, to which they all belong. This move received encouragement from South Viet Nam's Nguyen Van Thieu, who called the French Union merely "a state of mind."

Stern-faced Chou En-lai, Red China's Premier, flew to Bandung today from Jakarta and refused to discuss Formosa with newsmen.

Mobilize Mayors
WASHINGTON, April 17 (AP)—Plans are being outlined to mobilize the mayors of the nation's big cities in a fight against exempting the federal price of natural gas from federal regulation.

Reaction to these speeches, plus political developments in the interval, may influence Stevenson on whether to try again for the nomination.

Here for last night's Democratic gathering honoring Speaker Sam Rayburn, Stevenson was clearly pleased with what he called the "uniformly good" party reaction to his foreign policy speech last Monday night.

Having announced previously that he was going to devote 1955 to private business and wouldn't be the attraction for party rallies, he hesitated before deciding on the speech.

But he said the pressure of messages from people he didn't even know urging him to state his views, plus a feeling that he didn't want to be regarded as too timid to speak out, decided him in favor of the talk.

Nehru Maneuvers To Keep Bandung Conference Agenda On General Principle Plane

BANDUNG, Indonesia, April 17 (AP)—Twenty-four nations agreed tonight on a seven-point agenda for the 29-nation Asian-African Conference which opens here tomorrow.

If the issue is introduced, there is a place on this agenda for the question of seating Red China in the United Nations. The seven points:

1. Cultural cooperation.
2. Economic cooperation.
3. Problems of dependent people.
4. Human rights and self-determination.
5. Use of nuclear energy.
6. Weapons of mass destruction.
7. Promotion of world peace and cooperation.

Japanese delegates said after the agenda meeting that if a U. N. seat is asked for Red China it would come under point 7.

Red China was reported by some delegates to be determined to get something conclusive out of the meeting and not have the six-day conference filled up with fruitless talk.

But on the surface, at least, the agenda appeared to be a victory for Prime Minister Nehru of India, who said yesterday he thought general principles should be discussed and not specific questions.

Delegations from 29 countries representing more than a billion people on two continents will air their views. But rival philosophies among the delegates indicated discussions generally would follow broad lines of Asian-African interests rather than focus on specific spots such as Formosa. Exceptions will depend on the power of individual countries and blocs to sell their grievances to the conference.

It appeared France may be on more of a hot seat than the United States, which has both bitter critics and staunch supporters here. Observers from Tunisia, Morocco and Algeria—all in France's North African domain—have banded together. They plan to hand the Conference secretariat a joint memorandum asking for complete independence from France.

South Viet Nam and Cambodia also are represented, and the North Africans are in touch with them. The North Africans want Indo-Chinese support in seeking an end to the French Union, to which they all belong. This move received encouragement from South Viet Nam's Nguyen Van Thieu, who called the French Union merely "a state of mind."

Stern-faced Chou En-lai, Red China's Premier, flew to Bandung today from Jakarta and refused to discuss Formosa with newsmen.

Concentrate Opposite Formosa

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 17 (AP) — President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles today reported "an extensive buildup" of Chinese Communist air power opposite Formosa. Dulles called it "more intense and more broad than anything that has been known" until recently.

Dulles gave newsmen word of the buildup in a formal statement which was approved by the President after they had conferred for two hours at Eisenhower's vacation headquarters.

The statement said:

"In relation to China, we discussed the grave implications of an extensive buildup, now in progress, by the Chinese Communists of offensive air power on the China mainland opposite Formosa."

At a news conference Dulles was asked by a reporter whether the "extensive buildup" was something new "or of some intensification beyond what we have talked of before," Dulles replied:

"It is a considerable intensification. It is considerably broader in scope than anything that was known until recently."

Saying then that perhaps his statement was not too accurate, Dulles went on to put it this way:

"It (the buildup) is more intense and more broad in its scope than anything that has recently been known. In other words our knowledge developed only during the last few days, due partly to the fact that we are now getting more effective and prompt reports from that area as to what goes on."

Dulles arrived from Washington by plane and flew back to the capital immediately after the conference. In advance of the meeting White House press secretary James C. Hagerly had told newsmen he wanted to stress that "no emergency whatever" was being brought to Dulles to Augusta.

Dulles' statement recalled the dispute early this month over what Adm. Robert B. Carney had told a group of Washington newsmen about the intentions or capabilities of the Chinese Reds.

Some reporters who attended a background briefing given by Carney, the chief of naval operations, said he predicted the Reds might launch an attack in the Formosa Strait by mid-April. Others quoted him as saying they might be "able" to start an offensive that early.

In his prepared statement Dulles also:

1. Declared, "It seems that the Soviet Union now is willing to alter its 10-year stubborn policy of maintaining indefinitely a Red force of occupation in Austria."

But Dulles said, "Nothing should be taken for granted" with respect to the negotiations between Russia and Austria last week on an Austrian independence treaty.

In answering a news conference question, Dulles said that as a result of the negotiations "it will make a Big Four conference seem more desirable." He said he was making no distinction between a conference of chiefs of state and one at a lower level.

2. Reported to the President "a steady progress in the program for bringing into force the treaties for German sovereignty, German entry into NATO and the creation of a Western European union."

On that point, Dulles added: "I told the President it was hoped to have a meeting of the NATO ministerial council early in May, on the assumption that the Federal Republic of Germany would, by then, be eligible to attend, and that at that time the foreign ministers would expect to discuss and, I hoped, advance concrete plans for new discussions with the Soviet Union."

3. Said he gave the President a picture of the situation in Viet Nam, where "the central government grapples with the problem of bringing about national unity." The secretary described the situation there as "difficult," but added "there is no reason for discouragement."

Dulles arrived from Washington shortly before noon while the President was attending services at the Reid Memorial Presbyterian Church.

Cancer Crusade Workers Door-To-Door In County Tonight

Hundreds To Make Personal Appeal At 6:30

TONIGHT at 6:30 you'll have a chance to help in the all-out fight against cancer.

Hundreds of Monroe County women will ring doorbells and knock on doors in your neighborhood and the rest of the area.

The women will be asking homeowners to contribute dollars to the annual Cancer Crusade. The Monroe County goal this year is $5,400.

Of this total—if the goal is made—58 percent will stay in Monroe County. It will be used locally to provide the many services of the local unit of the Cancer Society.

Among these services are the thousands of free dressings given each year to cancer patients and their families. Last year the Society gave nearly 20,000 of these costly bandages and dressings to patients.

From the donations, also, will come transportation for patients who cannot pay for their own and payment of fees for visiting nurses whose job it is to administer medication prescribed by doctors, to teach the family how to care for the patient and change the hundreds of dressings needed in the constant care of a cancer victim.

The rest of the money you contribute will be used for research. In this field you will help the doctors of scientists now on the job to find the final answer, the secret and the key to cancer's causes and its cure.

That answer is not far in the future, many scientists believe. It will come only from hard, scientific work.

Your contribution—in cash—is the best way open to you as a recruit in the giant Cancer Crusade.

Workers from all areas of the county have volunteered to call on homes in the county tonight.

In Stroudsburg, East Stroudsburg and part of Stroud Township, the volunteers are from Stroud Community Club. In other areas they have been recruited from the dozens of other civic-minded, public service organizations whose members aid in many community projects.

Among the workers are the following:

Stroudsburg—First ward: Mrs. Lester Katz and June Ellinger, co-chairmen; Jean Adams, Joan Adams, Shirley Adams, Clara Lombardi, Mrs. Clarence Selp, Mrs. John Kirk, Mrs. Fred Metzgar, Mrs. William Henry.

Early Cancer Discovery Based On Prompt Testing

By Leonard Randolph
LUCK PLAYED a winning hand in the case of two Monroe County women who were patients at the General Hospital this year.

During routine tests at the hospital uterine cancer was found in both women.

Prompt, continued treatment was given. As a direct result, both women are alive, well and leading normal lives today.

Both of these cancer cases were discovered since January 1. Both were in extremely early stages so that the patient responded readily to treatment.

In many other cases, the luck factor runs against the physician and his patient. Sometimes this is because the patient does not have a regular, thorough physical examination. Sometimes—but not often—it is because the doctor's tests do not turn up a positive diagnosis when cancer is present in the body.

Today—in 1955—Monroe County General Hospital is one of the best-equipped, best-trained institutions of its size for the treatment and detection of cancer.

The chief surgeon, Dr. Claus Jordan, has devoted much of his time to the study of cancer as a disease and to the curing of cancer by surgical and medical means.

But the General Hospital's strongest point where cancer detection is concerned lies in the fact that it employs a full-time pathologist.

The pathologist is the connecting link between treatment, cure and surgery and the massive body of research being done in the cancer field. His job is to study body tissues—both diseased and healthy—and determine whether or not the disease suspected by a doctor is present.

At General Hospital the pathologist is Dr. M. J. Leitner. His is a time-consuming, often thankless job.

Pathology, in simple terms, is the study of changes in body tissues produced by disease. Nearly every disease in human experience causes some change in the tissue affected by it. This is true, especially, of cancer.

The hospital conducts many pathological tests of its own. When a patient is hospitalized, if he is seriously ill, tests are taken to determine the precise nature of the disease.

Dr. Leitner, who is the chairman for Stroudsburg, has announced by Mrs. Z. J. Viechnicki and Mrs. Frank Myers, co-chairmen for the borough on behalf of the Stroud Community Club.

Workers are follows:
First ward—Mrs. Frank Talaz, captain; Mrs. Lawrence Diddie, Barbara Klinge, Mrs. Lucille Burnham, Mrs. Howard Kester, Dr. Kenneth Knierim, Mrs. Elmer Detrick, Mrs. Theodore Viechnicki, Mrs. Gladys Hamer, Mrs. Ellen Albani, Mrs. Robert Westbrook, Mrs. Walter Brown, Mrs. Sadie Gussert, Mrs. G. Merritt Hamill, Mrs. Elmore Chiappa, Mrs. Charles Boltz, Mrs. Howard Kintner, Mrs. Robert Vogt, Mrs. Joseph Sobinski, Mrs. Edward Weber, Mrs. Francis Silver and Mrs. Edward Pugh.

Second ward—Margaret Stabenow, captain; Mrs. Ray Arnold, Mrs. J. R. Jacobs, Mrs. Claude Cramer, Mrs. J. E. Corby, Mrs. M. R. Elboweig, Mrs. G. Snyder, Mrs. A. Blewitt, Mrs. Ashton Burrows, Mrs. David Miller, Mrs. I. B. Kiffin, Mrs. J. K. Skeldon, Amy Peters, Mrs. R. J. Hughes, Mrs. A. J. Pensyl, Mrs. Mary Buehli and Mrs. G. A. Reich.

Additional Name Tomorrow

DR. LUDWIG GROSS of the Veterans Administration Hospital, the Bronx, N. Y., reported that he has discovered "sleeping" viruses in normal cells that can wake up and cause cancer. Dr. Gross presented his findings before the annual meeting of the American Association for Cancer Research in San Francisco. He said that "sleeping" viruses would be absolutely harmless until some outside "trigger" came along to make them vicious.

Small pieces of body tissue—microscopically thin in dimension—are removed. These thin fragments of tissue are preserved. A "slide" or "smear" is made from them. This slide is then placed under a microscope. It is studied in infinite detail, with particular attention paid to the contrasts in structure between the diseased tissue and the "healthy" tissue removed from the same body.

From this painstaking study, a diagnosis of the disease can be made. Whatever the diagnosis may be, no matter how serious the disease may seem—the doctor, the surgeon and the nurse will know precisely what they are fighting. Until they know this, the treatment must, of necessity, be general in nature.

Your family doctor and your dentist are most often the indirect contact between you, as patient, and the hospital pathologist.

When the doctor or dentist examines you he may find external evidence or symptoms which cause him to suspect you have cancer. In the case of the doctor, for example, such a suspicion might be aroused during the course of a regular "Five Point" checkup.

Let us take, as an example, a checkup of a female patient. During the examination, the doctor may find indications of cancer in the area of the cervix.

If this is true, one diagnostic method would be this:

The doctor, using a cervical biopsy instrument resembling a pair of thin-tongued surgical shears, would clip a small piece of tissue from the cervical area. This tiny lump of flesh would be dropped into a jar containing a strong preservative (generally ether and alcohol or formalin).

The jar would then be taken to the hospital pathologist. The tests conducted would then be the same as those made from tissue taken from an in-patient at the hospital.

When the pathological tests are completed, a biopsy-diagnosis sheet will be returned to the doctor on the case.

Much the same procedure is followed in the case of cancer of any other organ of the body with the exception, of course, of the stomach, lungs and other areas completely inaccessible to normal instruments.

In the case of the dentist—whose role in fighting cancer is badly underestimated—the biopsy would include a small portion of tissue from the mouth, gums, throat or palate.

In his role as pathologist at General Hospital, Dr. Leitner is in constant contact with the diagnosis of hundreds of diseases. His work is little known. It is less understood.

Like the surgeon, like new medicines in the hands of your own doctor and like the hundred discoveries each year which make Man's struggle against disease an easier one, the pathologist and his science represent an enormous step forward for mankind.

In his hands the pathologist often holds the key to the secret of your illness.

If he is given the opportunity to look for that secret early enough, your life may be extended many years.

But don't depend on "luck" entirely.

Over 100 Exhibitors In Hotel Show Opening Wednesday

Incode! Will Show Delaware River Exhibit

OVER 100 exhibitors are setting up colorful booths in the Penn-Stroud exhibition hall (garage) today for the sixth annual Pocono Mountains Hotel Show which opens at 1 p.m. Wednesday with a ribbon-cutting ceremony staged by vice presidents of the Pocono Mountains Vacation Bureau.

The bureau along with the Northeastern Pennsylvania Restaurant Assn. and the Monroe County Retail Liquor Dealers' Assn. are sponsoring what spokesmen for the three organizations believe will be the largest and best show ever presented.

In addition to the major interest the exhibits will have for hotelmen, tap room and restaurant operators, there will be much interest for the public.

One of the highlights of the show will be the exhibit of the Interstate Commission on the Delaware River Basin (Incode!).

Incode's display depicts the Delaware River Valley, emphasizing the upper basin as the playground of the valley.

Mounted on a two-wheeled trailer the exhibit has flashing black and white lights on a map of the Delaware River Valley along with the back-lighting of a series of Kodachrome pictures.

Harvey R. Frantz, conservationist with Incode, will be present during the show to explain the exhibit and answer questions. Location of the proposed Wallpack Dam dam, now of major interest because of recent legislative activity regarding its construction, is shown on the map.

An informal luncheon — with no speeches — will be held at 12 noon in The Penn-Stroud. Show hours Wednesday will be from 1 p.m. to 7 p.m. On Thursday the show will open at 10 a.m. and close at 7 p.m. There is no admission charge.

The Northeastern Pennsylvania Restaurant Assn. will conduct closing dinner of the show. There will be a "dutch treat" cocktail party starting at 6 p.m. with dinner at 7 in the Penn-Stroud. John Cuff, Scranton will be chief speaker. Joseph H. Mulhern, president of NPHRA will also speak.

Bernard Byrook, Hazleton is general chairman of the dinner. He is assisted by George Colovos, Peter J. Kaldes, Mr. Mulhern, Charles Rosell, all Scranton and Albert J. Stets, Pocono Manor.

United Jewish Appeal Opens Drive In 100 Area Counties

SCRANTON, April 17—A leadership conference of the United Jewish Appeal launching the UJA's 1955 campaign in 100 Eastern Pennsylvania communities heard Fannie Hurst, noted American novelist today, Sunday, April 17, salute the state of Israel on its forthcoming 7th anniversary (April 27).

Samuel Block, of Popular Valley is chairman of the United Jewish Appeal drive for the Monroe County region. Miss Hurst, who recently returned from a visit to the new state told the 400 assembled UJA chairmen and civic leaders that "Israel from its inception has given the world a courageous demonstration of democracy in action. Its steadfast open-door refugee policy and its admission of more than 750,000 homeless and oppressed, despite grave economic burdens is without precedent in today's world."

"The state of Israel," Miss Hurst emphasized, "has demonstrated in its brief seven year history that it is a land to be cherished by the friends and forces of freedom everywhere."

Miss Hurst urged her listeners to marshal intensified support of the nationwide UJA campaign. The drive seeks $99,521,275 for welfare, settlement and rehabilitation programs in behalf of 472,000 persons in Israel, North Africa, the Moslem countries and the United States.

Moses W. Beckelman, director general of the overseas operations of the Joint Distribution Committee, reported that mounting concern for their future in strife-torn Tunisia and Morocco has led many tens of thousands to appeal for emigration to Israel.

Mr. Beckelman pointed out that Israel can receive 30,000 of these Jews in 1955 provided funds are made available through the UJA for their movement and resettlement.

Others who addressed the conference included Mayor James T. Hannon of Scranton; Nathan I. Kux of Wilkes-Barre, conference chairman; A. B. Cohen of Scranton, honorary chairman; and Joseph Harris of Scranton, co-chairman. The conference also heard Regina Benik brilliant Metropolitan Opera soprano in a program of Hebrew, Yiddish, classical and modern songs.

Stephen Reed

Donald Singer

Stephen Reed, Don Singer Start Basic At Fort Dix

TWO LOCAL MEN have arrived at Fort Dix, N. J., for eight weeks basic training with the 60th Infantry Division. They are: Stephen J. Reed, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman H. Reed, Stroudsburg RD3, and Donald C. Singer, 927 Ehler St., Stroudsburg, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Singer.

Reed attended machine and metal trades high school in New York City before entering the service.

Singer, a graduate of local schools, worked with his father before he entered the service.

After basic training the men will get one of these three assignments: eight weeks more of advanced training; be enrolled in one of 11 specialist schools, or be transferred to another Army post for training in a technical school.

Both men were assigned to "I" Company, but different regiments. Reed is with the 364th and Singer with the 272nd.

NY Central Operations Are Normal

SYRACUSE, N.Y., April 17 (AP)—The New York Central Railroad reported today normal operation on its lines between Buffalo and New York.

The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers yesterday had called a walkout of 1,250 engineers in the division for 8 a.m. today.

The strike was later called off but there was some doubt whether all employees involved would be notified on time.

The walkout was postponed at the request of the federal government. A mediator has arranged for a meeting Monday between the railroad and union.

Main issue is a Dec. 9 contract change which boosted the guaranteed mileage for newly promoted engineers from 2,400 to 2,000 miles.

License Tag Increases

Increases both in the gasoline tax collected by the Commonwealth and in the price of passenger car license tag fees are being discussed in Capitol Hill as the Leader administration looks about it in an effort to produce the requisite funds to balance the state budget.

Budget estimates indicate that if the tax per gallon were raised one cent, about $27 million additional would be available, with an equal total possible should $4 be added to the present $10 license tag fee.

Like everyone else, we are as allergic to increased taxes as the next person, but for a long time we have been wondering why someone has not taken a closer look at the tag fee program. On virtually every side of us, contiguous states have been exacting a far higher price for the annual license plates sold in those states, while Pennsylvania has gone placidly along for a considerable period without touching this source of taxation.

Certainly it would appear reasonable in these days of comparatively high costs for new and used automobiles, to say nothing of the accessories thereto, should an increase be added to the cost of tags. And, for the matter of that, we are of the belief that the Pennsylvania cost of drivers' licenses is absurdly low and might well be examined for the purposes of increase.

Coddling Criminals

The increase in teen-age crime is partly a result of "maudlin sentimentality" toward youthful criminals, according to FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover.

Poor home conditions and lack of religious training are contributing factors, of course, but as Mr. Hoover pointed out in his report to Congress, abuse of clemency is always a thwart to law enforcement.

As he puts it, there is a great deal of concern about the plight of the criminal, but not so much concern about the seriousness of the crimes, nor the anguish caused the victims. Probably no one would advocate the same treatment for a youthful first offender as for a hardened adult, because many "wild" youngsters have grown up to be good citizens. But the number of repeaters among teen-agers is alarming evidence that our present methods of dealing with the problem are inadequate.

After all, it is small comfort to the person who is attacked or robbed to learn that the one who committed the crime was "just a boy."

George Sokolsky Says...

Fascism, Communism In Practice Both Violate Principles Of Human Liberty

Max Lerner, writing about Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes, Jr. said:

In the years after 1935, hundreds of publications arose which were either directly connected with fascist movements, like Pelley's Silver Shirt paper and the Christian Front "Social Justice," or, like more powerful newspapers such as the "Chicago Tribune," tended to coincide with the Nazi pattern of anti-administration bitterness. To take the position that only specific issues can be excluded from the mails and that there can be no suspension of the second-class mailing rights as a whole is clearly to deny to the government an indispensable weapon for fighting the enemy, and to leave the nation at the enemies' mercy on one of its most valuable fronts. The long reign of pro-fascist propaganda in the United States, before Pearl Harbor, had left substantial elements of public opinion in a receptive mind for the most vicious anti-democratic and anti-war writing in our recent history."

Lerner, in a word, favored the suspension of second-class mail for Nazi and Fascist newspapers and magazines. But the Nazis never developed a movement in this country as powerful, as effective or as dangerous to the United States as the Communists have. Today there is no evidence of a meaningful Nazi or Fascist movement in the United States, but the Communists continue to disturb this country. On this subject, Lerner says: "I add one observation evoked by the experience of America with civil liberties in the period after World War II. This was a period of cold war rather than of war itself. The cold war nevertheless produced tensions far out of proportion to the actual strength of the Communist movement inside the United States, with a resulting restriction in the climate of opinion. The focal point shifted from censorship of the political opinions of individuals—far beyond what could be justified by any reasonable estimate of the danger of these opinions to American survival. What was most dangerous to America, on the other hand, was that it stripped itself of some of the strength of the strongest weapon it had in the world-wide struggle with Kremlin power—the image of a free society."

From these quotations, we must assume that, according to Lerner, it was correct to suppress "the image of a free society" when it applied to the Nazi or the Fascist but it is wrong to apply the same rule to the Communists and their allies. It is difficult to follow the logic or the morality of this position. Either "the image of a free society" is to be preserved at all times, either we are to recognize free access to knowledge at all times or we give the Post Office authority over the minds of our people at all times. Max Lerner's appraisal of the dangers of Communism in the United States differs radically from that of J. Edgar Hoover who, as Director of the FBI, is more reliable an assessor of this conspiracy than any private person.

I have never been able to understand why so-called liberals make the distinction between Fascism and Communism. In practice both violate human liberty. In theory both are a rejection of the American concept of the rights of the individual to freedom of choice, to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. Both elevate the authority of the state and degrade the individual to a thing controlled by the state. Both hated the United States and the Soviet Union. Both are conducting a world-wide war against this country now.

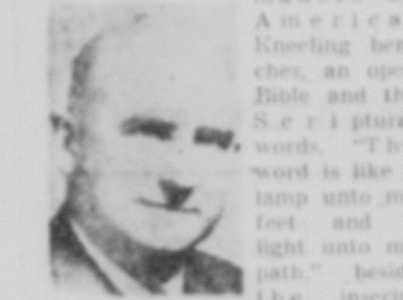

It would seem to be more consistent and more fitting for a liberal, such as Max Lerner, to proclaim himself to be, to oppose Marxism as vehemently as he opposed Fascism. On the other hand, one would have expected him to keep the mails open to all ideas, including those which he abhors. Any other view seems to me to violate, to obliterate "the image of a free society."

Many opponents of Hitler and the Nazi were prepared to risk the institutions that guard our liberties in the vehemence of their opposition. They failed to realize that they were inaugurating an era of conformity by pressure of majority opinion. Now the precedents they set are being turned upon them. The current practice of the Post Office to decide what Americans should know is an outcome of their activities.

—by H. I. Phillips

POTOMAC CHAPEL. The Washington Capitol Building is opening a Chapel of Meditation and Prayer for the lawmakers of America.

Knocking benches, an open Bible and the Scriptures words. "Thy word is like a lamp unto my feet and a light unto my path," beside the inscription, "This Nation Under God" feature it. In the homes of the land there will be much greater confidence in government if reports show the Chapel is overcrowded.

The call back to the Gospels has been sounded by the President and by many leaders in the past few months, and the thought of our top public servants on their knees between speeches, debates and decisions affecting the fate of the nation can be reassuring to constituents. "All's prayerful on the Potomac" would ease the public mind. A little spiritual meditation on the way to filibusters, hot debates and vital actions in a crucial hour could be a great thing for us all. And if a Congressman drops into the Chapel on his way back from a roll call vote to check on his conscience it won't hurt any. In the prayer room is a window showing a kneeling figure of George Washington. No Congressman can spend a minute before this one without having his egoism cut down to size. And the 19th Psalm quotation, "Thy word is a lamp unto my feet and a light unto my path," could make many a legislator realize that he has been depending on the wrong illumination to and from decisions upon which the safety of America depends. It is pretty generally proclaimed that the horrors of the atomic bomb can be averted only through an Atomic Faith and there is more than atomic energy in the matchless passages of the 19th Psalm.

"Thy testimonies are my delight and my counselors. Give me understanding and I shall keep Thy law; yea I shall observe it in my whole heart. Make me to go in the paths of Thy commandments, for therein do I delight. Thy statutes have been my songs in the house of My pilgrimage. Thy faithfulness is to all generations. How sweet are Thy words unto my taste! Yea, sweeter than honey to the mouth. . . I have inclined my heart to keep Thy statutes always, even unto the end."

The Chapel isn't getting many big headlines, but news that it is being used can be the most cheering tidings of the day, say we. The men in whose hands is the future of the U. S. A. have certainly been talking and acting as if in need of prayer.

Employers and colleges are reported going for "Man Takes a Drink," a pretty wonderful handling of America's great drinking problem by Rev. John C. Ford, brother of Mrs. John Kiernan. "Decide for yourself to drink or not but do so on the basis of facts and principles" he urges in this book analyzing the problem in a most clarifying way. . . . That trip of a dozen Senators on the atomic submarine clearly shows that even Congress likes to do its act underwater in the current entertainment trend. . . . We had rather expect a Jelke girl witness to refuse to answer questions on the ground that it would NOT degrade her. . . . We won't fully accept those stories of Patricia Hayes in the Mexican bull rings until we hear the bull's side of it. . . . A Virginia newspaper editor is to broadcast the complete Yalta Papers. . . . That's one way to kill off the sponsor whose pitch begins, "Do you have trouble sleeping? . . . Do you suppose Eastman Kodak dropped 'Norb' so quickly because of 'developments'? A New York legislative committee charges that publishers of comic books have brazenly violated their recently pledged code to cut brutality, violence and lawlessness from books aimed at the small fry. . . . Ya mean you thought 'codes' meant something? . . . A comic book publisher replies, 'That committee has made no intensive study of the books.' . . . What more intensive study is needed than a stop at any newsstand?"

When Lucy gives with the high notes, the lyrics come across as clear as a bell. Obviously there was nobody like her around when columnist Franklin P. Adams was a lad. He confesses that until he reached the age of twelve, he was convinced that the first line of our anthem was, "Gee, Kansas City."

The Chicago Cubs once had a pitcher on their staff whom Ring Lardner considered below major league stature. "His most deceptive pitch," scoffed Ring, "is his fast ball. The batter can't tell it from his slow ball."

Taxes, Inflation Beating Middle Aged Executives

The trouble with logic is that it enables you to see how sensible something is when it otherwise wouldn't appear to be to your best interests.

Like, for instance, paying more money to somebody else in order to make yourself better off.

Seems to me I have been doing myself a lot of favors of this kind lately. You take that raise the congressmen granted themselves and the judges. I was strong for it, and still am, even though it cost me money.

With hardly any strain I can see that if we let congressmen enough to cover the cost of living in Washington we run less danger of getting crooks and millionaires in there.

Moreover, a congressman with enough take-home pay to keep him from worrying about grocery bills is apt to pay more attention to his statehood and thereby get a better do on it. Manifestly the benefits of all this ultimately get back to me and other ordinary journeyman taxpayers.

A little roundabout, maybe, but the reasoning tracks.

By the same token, paying judges better salaries will keep them in a better mood and assure them more peace of mind, so they can concentrate exclusively on matters of jurisprudence. This will stand me in good stead if I ever hailed into court—especially if I'm innocent.

The same principle holds with respect to state and local government functionaries, to many of whom the legislators this year are giving raises at my expense. I'm for that, too. Although it may seem to leave me out of pocket, in the long run it will do me good by inspiring these grateful fellows to work harder and give me greater value for my tax dollar.

Come now Fortune magazine with a suggestion that may be the best thing the big boss can do for his key executives is to persuade his directors to give HIM a raise.

The logic of that one is a bit tricky, but it can be followed. Briefly it goes like this: The pay of production workers has kept pace with inflation and raising taxes, on the whole. Top management has done all right, through bonuses and other compensating devices, even though the salaries haven't gone up much.

But taxes and inflation have given middle-range executives an awful feeling. The margin between top production-wage scales and top management salaries has been squeezed so thin that there is little room to give the in-betweeners incentive raises. Upping the head man's salary would allow more leeway.

This is a good thought, and I appreciate Fortune's kindly interest in my problems.

But these dog-leg methods of economic uplift are a little slow taking hold. Instead of improving my lot via congress, the judiciary and the big boss, has anyone considered the beneficial possibilities of just handing me some extra dough—direct?

Titian-haired Lucy Monroe has sung "The Star Spangled Banner" so often that several legislators have discussed admitting her as the forty-ninth state. From the Supreme Court to Milwaukee—home of the plea to the land of the Braves—she's warbled our national anthem in fair weather and foul, and become so identified therewith that every time she appears with a new male escort, with immediately presume his name is Francis Scott Key.

When Lucy gives with the high notes, the lyrics come across as clear as a bell. Obviously there was nobody like her around when columnist Franklin P. Adams was a lad. He confesses that until he reached the age of twelve, he was convinced that the first line of our anthem was, "Gee, Kansas City."

Moscow May Reveal Atomic Secrets At UN Conference

Washington, April 18—There has been an intriguing development in the preparations for the United Nations history-making conference on the peaceful use of the atom.

The world will apparently get a peek at a few of Russia's atomic secrets.

At least one of the Soviet officials arranging the Geneva conference, the first of its kind ever held. Not only will a delegation of Russian scientists participate, but they will present some significant papers.

Foremost among them will be one on "The U.S.S.R.'s first atomic power plant for industrial purposes."

Moscow also lists "other important atomic papers," but has furnished no clue as to their nature. It is assumed they deal with subjects on the agenda of the conference, but that's only a guess.

Similarly, despite the Red's official word about being on hand, there is no assurance they will go through with it. The Kremlin is still violently denouncing and fighting President Eisenhower's plan for an international uranium pool for peaceful purposes.

This UN conference, in August, is a direct outgrowth of the President's proposal.

If the Soviet scientists do show up and, as promised, lift the Iron Curtain slightly on what they have been doing in this crucial atomic field, it will be a notable event. The Reds have talked a lot about their peaceful atomic developments, but have never produced any proof to back up their boasts.

They will have plenty of opportunity to do so at the historic Geneva party. The as-yet-unannounced agenda will provide it.

It includes certain explosive subjects, such as the biological effects of radiation. Regarding this grave problem, UN authorities are advising the participating countries. "This could include a discussion of the human exposures which have occurred. It could also emphasize the experimental results which are available on animals."

U. S. scientists will report on studies of the Japanese bombings.

and the fishermen and others who were affected by the unexpectedly severe "fall-out" from a hydrogen test in the Pacific in March of 1954.

It will be interesting to observe what, if anything, the Russians say about this vital matter.

It is possible to report the following highlights of the agenda that has been drafted for this historic scientific meeting:

Radiation injury and protection.

Genetic effects, including fields of botany and zoology.

Problems relating to large quantities of radioactive substances.

Reactor safety problems.

Problems of atomic waste treatment and disposal.

Storage and separation of fission products.

World power requirements by 1975 and 2000.

Atomic energy needs of individual countries and possibilities.

Experience with existing nuclear energy power plants with reference to ways of developing atomic power.

Dr. Homi Bhabha, India, is president of the party and will be assisted by six vice presidents.

They include Dr. E. T. Rabi, noted American physicist who won the Nobel Prize, and Dr. D. V. Skobeltsyn, Soviet atomic scientist.

The U. S. delegation will include Lewis Strauss, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, and Dr. George Weil, former assistant director of the Commission's reactor development division.

Also planning to attend are members of the Joint Congressional Atomic Committee.

Note: One of the sensational disclosures of former President Truman's forthcoming memoirs is that he authorized the use of atomic weapons in the Korean war. He signed the necessary order in the summer of 1952 when the greatly outnumbered U. S. forces were fighting with their backs to the sea at Pusan.

Truman directed the atomic bombs were to be as a last expedient. But the desperate military situation stabilized and the A-weapons were never actually unloaded from the carrier that rushed them to Korea.

Truman acted on the recommendation of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, then headed by General Omar Bradley. Field commander at the time was the late Lieutenant General Walton H. Walker, and the Far Eastern commander was General Douglas MacArthur.

Bible Use Plan To Be Launched

—by H. G. Heller

Pennsylvania will be blanketed by the strongest program ever projected in the use and understanding of the Bible.

The program was launched today by the Pennsylvania Council of Christian Education meeting in executive session at St. Matthews Lutheran Church, Harrisburg.

Thousands of children, youth and adults will be touched by the intensive campaign to reach the church and unchurched with the literature and training on how to use and understand the Bible. Three hundred communities will be visited in the first three years of the project.

Rev. Robert E. Breth, Harrisburg, director of the Council project, said today that though the Bible is still the world's best seller there is widespread evidence that it is a neglected book. It is owned but not utilized; it is cherished but not understood.

Speaking before the annual meeting of the Board, Mr. Breth outlined the following six-point program to accomplish the goal that has been set: 1) Community wide fellowship in the World Wide Bible Reading period; 2) In every village, town and city a Bible Hymn Festival; 3) In every home Daily Devotions; 4) In every church school courses on the use and understanding of the Bible; 5) For every community a Bible Film Festival—the Bible will be presented in motion picture and filmstrip; 6) Inter-Church observance of the Universal Week of Prayer observed for over a hundred years—the Universal Week of Prayer is noted in the study and interpretation of the Bible.

The Pennsylvania Council of Christian Education represents 79 major denominations working together in the field of Christian education.

Five new hymns for youth and by youth have been launched for the occasion. They are "God of All, Whose Love Surrounds Us," "A Prayer for Unity," "God, the Lord of Lovely Places," "A Students Hymn," and "O Master, Who In Days of Youth."

On Broadway

—by Walter Winchell

The Broadway Lights Curtain—Time: "Champagne Complex," a farce, was lauded by several reviewers, but the majority regretted that it lacked the proper "fizz."

Some hailed its wit, its sly dialog, much of which dragged. . . . Polly Bergen's dimples and spoofing by the other two members of the cast, Donald Cook and John Dall, were given a tip of the hat for their adequate playing. . . . Critic Brooks Atkinson (who enjoyed a lot of it) dismissed it as "a thin farce."

His verdict clashed with reviewer J. McClain's minority blessing in the Journal-American: "A funny show."

"Meet The People" (a warmed-over floor-show) came to the old Diamond Horseshoe and competed with the waiters serving dinner and hooch. . . . Some of the entertainers were regaled with praise with one apparition (Wm. Hawkins) enjoying it all.

"Ankles Avenge" (which debuted at the Hellinger Monday night) made box-office history in Boston (during Lent) grossing hefty sellout money there.

In the Wings: Some Hollywood writers were amazed about Mario Lanza, who chuckled all that Las Vegas lost because of alleged "laryngitis."

"Yes," sighed Jackie Elinson, "1935 will be remembered as the year Churchill and Lanza quit. Leaving their governments in tears."

The Cinemas: "Marty" is a story about ordinary folks, expressing the poetry of their hopes and the melody of their love. Expertly conceived and tenderly played by Betsy Blair and Ernest Borgnine. . . . "An Annapolis Story" represents a testimonial to Mr. and Mrs. United States from shipbuilders and All The Ships At Sea. . . . "A Man Called Peter" speaks the language of the spirit. Every heart will understand its inspiring theme. . . . "The Purple Plain" is an entertaining adventure. Gregory Peck is The Dared-devil, Burmese beauty Win Min Than is The Darling. . . . "Long

One had to resign to a $100,000 casualty. The other two, surprisingly, are not playing to capacity. The public, it appears, is criticizing critics. . . . The rumor has Darvas & Julia (dance experts) planning to split their exciting act. Julia aspires to be an actress and singer. Darvas is so busy with his many rich business deals, he'd like to take a holiday and attend to them. . . . "Something Smith and the Redheads" open at the Copia Thursday eve. Reported a hot trio. . . . The Trouper (a worthy group of philanthropic ladies) host their annual affair (at the Latin Quarter) on the 24th. Jane Froman will be honored as "Trouper of the Year."

The Telebrities: "The Search" focused its cameras on psychiatric research. If this program failed to stimulate and enlighten you—you should do The Couch Bit. . . . NBC gave Leah's "Merry Widow" another pretty tinkle, especially when lovely Anne Jeffreys vibrated. . . . "Caesar's Hour" was embellished by Nantelle Fabray. She put the cream in "Tea for Two." . . . Mr. Caesar's show, by the way, costs $50,000 per hour. . . . Mutun's "Queen for a Day" celebrates its 16th Birthday on the 20th. . . . Critic John Crosby's essay on a major network's mediocrity was Topic A in TV temples all week. . . . Crosby constructively critiqued that outside of the net's public affairs programs it was letting its only competitor steal the show and the audience, and that it "hasn't done one single thing (since levee started) that is particularly memorable."

However, to look ahead for a whole week at this season of the year is to court a nervous breakdown. The thing to do is to take each day as it comes, or even that seems too frantic, just hour by hour.

And this hour would be a good time to catch up on the weekend weddings. From the number, it might as well be June. Well, it will be June before we know it, and all these dinners, banquets, teas and luncheons will be over.

I was going to say forgotten, too, but the pounds will be there to remind us—except where we have to run so fast between club luncheon and bowling banquet that we burn up the excess calories.

The Dames of Malta degree team will practice after lodge meeting tonight. All members interested in drill work are asked to attend.

When Shorty Widmer (or maybe I should be dignified and say "Arthur") presented our Wyckoff radio broadcast of Wednesday morning, he had some very fine things to say about all of the wonderful people who have been friends of our "friendly store" through the years. In particular, he spoke of Mrs. Anna Weidner, who is now in her eighties, and her daughter, Mrs. Mary Witte. Both women are very well known throughout our county, and while I haven't heard Mary sing in a number of years, or read Mrs. Weidner's name in the lodge news for some time, I have memories of both, as vivid as my memories of yesterday.

During a recent visit with Mrs. Weidner, Shorty learned that she listens daily to the Wyckoff Shopper broadcast. And the proof that she was among the listeners on Wednesday has come in a greatly appreciated letter that arrived on his desk later in the week.

"Dear Mr. Widmer," it begins, "I want to tell you how sweet and kind you were to give me that wonderful broadcast which I never expected. Thank you, I think of you as my personal friend also. God bless you, Arthur, and that new wife of yours, I know that you both will be very happy."

"You bet I never miss Wyckoff's broadcast and always read the Shopper column. Again may God bless you."

Anna Weidner

There is more to the letter telling Mrs. Weidner's memories of her last visit to a Wyckoff 50 year customer party back in '47 or '48—a party that is a glowing memory. Some time later she suffered a fall which has handicapped her since. Her postscript tells another important fact: "Perhaps you can't read my writing," it says, "as I was 87 years young on August 28, 1954."

It is that word "young" that we like . . . it's the way we feel about our 80 year old store. Young . . . growing . . . progressive and alert. Always on the verge of something new and exciting.

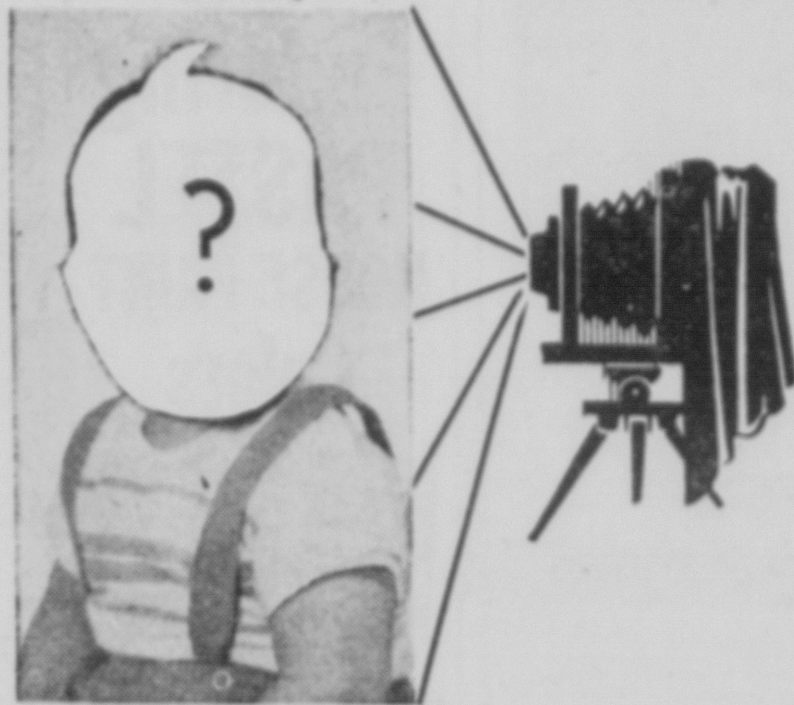

It is always a source of pleasure to hear of men and women who listen to our programs and read the Wyckoff Shopper columns. Somehow to me—as to Arthur and probably to Mr. Wyckoff himself—this represents an endless chain of good will, something like the candlelight circles formed by clubs as new members are received into the organization. Our store thrives on friendship and good will . . . on the pleasant experiences of youngsters who shop Wyckoff's today with their parents, and on the happy remembrances of such long-time acquaintances as Mrs. Weidner.

Thank you, Mrs. Weidner, for a lovely letter.

Rinehart Praises New 300 Tractor

THE SENSATION of the tractor industry, says E. M. Rinehart in describing the New International "300" low profile tractor.

This new tractor is truly the most advanced tractor in its class on the market today. Heavier than competitive models (4,100 lbs.) and with more horsepower (42 H.P.), this low silhouette 4 wheel tractor has adjustable tread width from 48" to 76".

One of the most popular features with many people is the fact that the tractor can take 2 or 3 point hitch implements or drawbar implements. This feature allows the use of competitors' equipment which one might already own to be used with the New International "300".

Other features include standard 5 speed transmission or Torque Amplifier drive providing 10 speeds forward and 2 reverse; transmission driven Power Take-Off or Independent Power Take-Off; and many other features. Any combination of features can be set up to fit the buyer's needs and his pocketbook.

Before YOU buy, Come out and see "The Sensation of the Tractor Industry" . . . The New International "300" at E. M. Rinehart's showroom on W. Main Street here in Stroudsburg. They'll be glad to demonstrate it, too!

UNDERSTANDING OUR CHILDREN—Coordinators Dr. J. Allen Kickerson, professor of education, and Dr. Anne L. Kuhn, associate professor of Education at camera. Hannon attended local schools and taught here for some time.

Hannon Coordinates Program On Understanding Children At New Haven State Teachers

NEW HAVEN, Conn.—One hundred thirty-five "viewers" and 76,000 television viewers watched a recent telecast of "Understanding Our Children," course for graduate and undergraduate credit produced by New Haven State Teachers College over channel 8 (WNHC-TV). Eighty-seven of the viewing students are enrolled for two or three credits as graduates or undergraduates. The others are auditing the course, which is concerned with child growth and development. It is the first presented in Connecticut for credit and the first for graduate credit offered in eastern United States.

Michael F. Hannon, assistant professor in the Department of Science at the College, is the program coordinator. A native of East Stroudsburg and a graduate of the State Teachers College there, he now lives at 275 Quinipiac Avenue, North Haven, with Mrs. Eleanor Hannon (also of Stroudsburg) and their two children.

The program was begun February 24 and will continue for 16 weeks until June 9 and 20 minutes a week. Two faculty members of the College serve as regular hosts and are assisted by members of the College faculty and child growth experts of Greater New Haven and Connecticut.

Mr. Hannon is in charge of producing the weekly program and coordinating the efforts of the performer-lecturer and those of credit-seeking students.

Regular "homework" assignments, including four book reports and a term paper, have been assigned viewing students. Credit will be accepted at the four Connecticut teachers colleges.

In-service teachers, nurses and housewives intending to return to teaching make up the principal part of the 135 students.

Polish Red Cut From Post

VIENNA, Austria, April 17 (AP)—Communist Poland's minister of state control, Franciszek Jozwiak-Witold, has been relieved from his post, Radio Warsaw reported today.

He was made a deputy premier, and Ramon Zambrski was appointed his successor. Vienna experts on Poland say Zambrski is a close friend of Boleslaw Bierut, first secretary of Poland's Communist party.

Spring Choral On Thursday

WHEN THE curtain goes up on the annual "Spring Choral Concert" at Stroudsburg High School the audience will hear a ten-year "hit parade" of chorus selections during the first half of the program. It is scheduled for 8:30 Thursday night.

Nutina Snyder, choral music director at the school, has included songs which have been popular with audiences and school choruses alike during the past decade.

Among the selections, Snyder has announced will be the following: By the girls chorus—"To All Who Love A Song" by Julia Smith, the girls' theme song for several years; "O, Dearest One, Thou Hast My Heart" by Robert Schumann; "When I Have Sung My Songs To You" by Ernest Charles; "Breakers off Barranquilla" from Joseph Clokey's "Five South American Nocturnes"; and Cecil Forsythe's "Old King Cole."

By the mixed chorus—"El Yireh Hazail," a Hebrew sacred song the title in translation is "Blessed Is He Who Will Build Galilee"; "Morning Comes Early," a Czechoslovakian folk tune; "Let Us Break Bread Together," a Negro spiritual; a medley of tunes from "Carousel," the Rodgers and Hammerstein musical version of Ferenc Molnar's fantasy, "Lilium."

Included in the medley will be the tunes, "This Was A Real Niece Clambake," "You'll Never Walk Alone," "Blow High, Blow Low," "If I Love You" and "June Is Bustin' Out All Over."

By the Madrigal singers—"Weary My Heart With Thee Doh"

Drum Corps Issues Call For Buglers

WHETHER YOU can bugle or not there may be a place for you in the American Legion Drum and Bugle Corps at George N. Kephau.

Bruce Price, president of the corps, issued a call for men interested in joining the group. They're needed, Price said, to fill vacancies in the bugle section of the outfit.

Price made this announcement in connection with a request for all regular members to be on hand for rehearsal Wednesday at 7 p.m. at the post home.

Men interested in joining the corps may come to the post home at rehearsal time, Price said. They'll be interviewed and given consideration for membership.

The corps is stepping up its efforts to enlist new members, Price said, in preparation for the Plead by Orlando DiLasso; "The Lark In The Morn," an English folk song and "Charlotten," a Southern song.

By the Decemettes—"Love Come Back To Me" from the operetta, "New Moon" by Sigmund Romberg; "River, River," a Chilean folk song and "The Big Brown Bear" by Mana-Zucca.

High School Students Plant Trees

STROUDSBURG High School students held tree planting ceremonies on Friday.

Three young trees were planted in the school "forest" west of the athletic field.

Grades seven and 10 went to one part of the forest with Thomas Knepp, science instructor at the school. Here James Welsh, sophomore class president, planted a Rose of Sharon shrub.

Grades eight and 11 went to another part of the forest with Mahlon Serfass, language instructor and advisor. Here Francis Harsa, junior class president, officiated at the planting of a scarlet hawthorn.

Grades nine and 12, accompanied by Alfred Munson, high school principal, planted a mountain ash tree. Ruth Fetherman, vice president of the senior class, officiated in the absence of the president.

The ceremonies were part of an overall plan to enlarge and beautify the forest on the school grounds. Exercises such as the planting of trees yesterday are intended to demonstrate vividly the purposes, aims and proper methods of reforestation and conservation, Munson said.

Scoutmaster Roundtable

Harriman, Knight Gridiron Club Speakers; Both Have Big Presidential Plans

By Robert S. Allen

WASHINGTON, April 17—Two nationally known governors with Presidential ambitions will be the star performers at the coming spring banquet of the famed Gridiron Club. They are:

California's Governor Goodwin Knight, who will speak for the Republicans; New York Governor Averell Harriman, who held a number of high diplomatic and administrative jobs in the Roosevelt and Truman Administrations, and who will present the Democratic viewpoint.

Harriman says he is for Adlai Stevenson for President, but is all set to run the Illinoisan doesn't.

Knight declares he "likes Ike" but if the President doesn't seek a second term the Californian's hat is already in the ring.

President Eisenhower will listen to this debate at the banquet on May 7.

Warriorettes Fall Before Alumnae, 4-1

EAST STROUDSBURG STATE Teachers College students saw their girls' tennis team bow to the Alumnae, 4-1, in the opening match of the current campaign on Saturday. All action took place on the ESSTC court.

The only match won by the Warriorettes was in the third singles event, when Arlene Kauffman took the measure of Alma Corson, 2-6, 6-3, 6-2.

Otherwise, the former Normal Hill stars were in complete command from start to finish.

Jean Hecht opened with a 6-3, 6-2 verdict over Nancy Noil in the number one singles and Elaine Hardenbergh won over Marilyn Stoult in the number two singles, 6-1, 6-3.

Carol Mosser and Janice Hudak combined to defeat Nancy Divney and Diane Weaver in the first doubles match, 6-0, 6-2.

Hecht and Hardenbergh returned to win over Joyce Fuhrman and Pat Zimmerman in the final doubles encounter, 7-5, 6-0.

The Warriorettes face their first intercollegiate competition on Wednesday when Drexel visits the Normal Hill courts at 3:30 p.m.

Bangor Set To Battle Phillipsburg

BANGOR—Bangor High School will play the first of four baseball games this week today when the Slayers tangle with Phillipsburg on the latter's home field. The first pitch is scheduled to take place at 4 p.m.

This game was originally listed for last week but was washed off the books at that time because of rain.

Larry Raph, senior southpaw, is expected to start on the mound for the Slayers, while Gary Strauss, another senior left hander, may be the number two finger on the line.

Due to the fact that Bangor plays four times this week, there is also a possibility that Bill Bray and Don Smith, both junior right handers, will be pressed into service today.

Rain Halts Races

WILLIAMSBURG, Pa., April 17—Showers followed by a heavy downpour muddled the Williams Grove Speedway today and forced postponement of the season's first AAA big car auto race until next Sunday.

Chou En Lai Faces Question On What To Do With Millions Of Overseas Chinese Asians

By Harold Mills

BANDUNG, Indonesia, April 17 (AP)—The big question facing Red China's Premier Chou En-lai at the Asian-African conference is this: "What are you going to do about the 12 million or more overseas Chinese living in Southeast Asia?"

It is unlikely this question will be raised in formal conference sessions.

But several countries are vitally interested in what the Peiping government is going to do about making Chinese abroad choose between the nationality of their homeland and that of the country in which they live.

The question of overseas Chinese with dual citizenship and dual loyalties always has been a vexing problem in countries such as Indonesia, which has more than three million Chinese; Thailand and Burma with smaller Chinese populations.

Burma's Premier U Nu raised this question with Chou nearly a year ago after the Communist Premier's visit to India. At that time Burmese sources said Chou promised he was returning home to make a formal announcement that Chinese living abroad must choose one nationality—either that of Chinese or that of the country in which they are settled.

"But nothing has happened," said one Burmese source here. "Chinese minorities in our countries still have dual citizenship and still are responsible to Peiping. If that nation wishes to make use of them."

Indonesian and Thai officials have expressed equally strong concern over Red China's failure to clearly make public its policy towards the overseas Chinese.

Well-informed sources here predict Nu will find time during the conference to raise again the question and remind Chou of his promise to settle it.

They predicted India's Premier Nehru would support Nu in attempting to bring from the Chinese leader fresh commitments.

It is understood that it was Nu who first brought Southeast Asia's concern over dual nationality of such a large segment of its population to Chou's attention, and advised him its solution would erase considerable distrust among his neighbors.

Officials here for the conference said they understood Chou's government was reluctant to risk criticism at home through ruling that the overseas Chinese must make a final choice and cut off all ties with Red China if they elect to be nationals of the countries in which they are living.

Lucille And Desi To Extend Range Of Activity

HOLLYWOOD, April 17 (AP)—Lucille Ball and Desi Arnaz plan to quit making "I Love Lucy" television films in about two years. After that, a spokesman said today, they'll produce, introduce—and occasionally star in—weekly hour-long shows called "Desilu Playhouse."

"Lucy" has been on television four years.

Arnaz said he and his wife want to extend their range of activity. He expressed belief the trend is toward hour-long programs.

The pair's "I Love Lucy" contract with CBS-TV has another year to run and the network and sponsors have an option for an additional year. Next Sunday the network begins reruns of the series.

Program Postponed

READING, April 17 (AP)—The American Motorcycle Association's Eastern dirt track inaugural racing program slated for the Reading fairgrounds this afternoon was postponed by rain to Friday night, June 17.

Pope Pius XII, still convalescing from his illness of last winter, went to St. Peter's later to venerate the martyrs.

The Boxers were a highly nationalist society in old imperial China who made a series of attacks on foreigners in 1900. The name commonly given them was a free translation of their more formal designation in Chinese, which meant "The Order of Literary, Patriotic, Harmonious Fists."

The newly created martyrs were foreign and Chinese Catholics who were killed in a church at the village of Cu Kja Hse.
